Early Balloting Give New Jersey
Man Lead But Clark Recovers Part of Loss.

NO SOLUTION IS IN SIGHT.

Convention Hopelessly Deadlocked And Delegates Tire
Of Voting.

BALTIMORE, July 2.—12:42 a. m.—With the Democratic National Convention hopelessly deadlocked, an adjournment was taken this morning at 12:42 o'clock, until noon to-day, when it will assemble to again resume the balloting with the hope of soon reaching the nomination for the Democratic President.

At 12 o'clock to-night the last ballot was taken, resulting as follows: Wilson, 494; Clark, 420; Underwood, 104; Haarmann, 72; Bryan, 1-2; Kern, 1; Foss, 28; Gaynor, 1; James, 1; Lewis, 1; absent, 1-2. Total, 1,088.

There was no material change in the vote of the candidates on the last ballot, although Wilson, who has been gaining steadily in the balloting since the morning session yesterday, lost little ground.

The last ballot was the forty-second. Speaker Champ Clark reached the lowest ebb of his candidacy on the ballot where Wilson reached the crest. He went down to 422 votes at this time, but immediately began to pick up until he had 430, when adjournment was taken. The high water mark of Wilson vote was reached on the thirty-ninth ballot, when he received a total of 501 1/2 votes.

That the delegates are tired of voting and are earnestly desirous that the convention come to an end is apparent.

During the session to-night the delegates sat in a sort of stupor. The roll call clerks entered the vote mechanically, often without waiting for response from the various States. At the end of the fortieth ballot a tired Alabama delegate offered a motion for adjournment, when the Wilson forces demanded a roll call, the motion was withdrawn. By the time the fortieth ballot was taken there was seemingly no hope of a nomination to-night.

BALTIMORE, July 1.—The Democratic convention was again the center of animation to-day and from an early hour the crowds began to besiege at 9 o'clock. The galleries were thrown open to the general public without tickets or other credentials and they were immediately filled to their capacity. The delegates were slow in arriving. The weather was moderately warm, but the convention hall was kept comfortable by the breeze that fluttered through the large transoms. The conditions are more comfortable than those of Friday and Saturday.

Eager interest was everywhere manifested in the struggle about to be renewed and speculation was abundant as to whether the deadlock would be broken and on the possibility of other sensational coups. The general sentiment which prevailed was that nothing definite had been done to bring about a close to the deadlock and if anything the lines were even tighter than before.

When Chairman James entered the hall and ascended the platform he was greeted with an enthusiastic round of applause and he introduced the chaplain of the day who pronounced the invocation. As the chaplain concluded his prayer Mr. Bryan at the head of the Nebraska delegation entered the hall and the audience wildly cheered.

Chairman James appealed to the galleries and all guests of the convention to refrain from delaying the business of the convention by applause or other interruptions and a resolution was passed to appoint a committee to request an extension of time on the return coupons of railroad tickets held by the delegates of the convention.

Many of the delegates held informal caucuses in their sections of the convention hall where the events since Saturday were discussed and the controversy between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Clark was the uppermost subject of conversation. In all corners of the hall men engaged in heated debate.

The twenty-seventh ballot showed but little change in the vote, Clark leading by a margin of 62 votes, with the gathering of a vote here and there on each ballot, while those in the rear lost a few, Wilson being the leader on the thirtieth ballot and the announcement of the vote was a signal for wild demonstration.

When the total of the 33d ballot was announced a large banner was sprung on the floor bearing a quotation of Mr. Bryan endorsing Mr. Clark's character as irreproachable. The crowd at once started a demonstration and Mr. Bryan came to the platform to address the convention. The crowd cheered madly and the Chair is pounding vigorously for order without effect. The demonstration is gradually subsiding but the crowd is still wildly excited.

The convention adjourned to convene at 8 o'clock.

What seems to be the largest crowd of the convention gathered in the Armory. The band being dispensed with since Saturday night and the band stand was jammed with spectators.

The doors of the hall were closed at 2:30 o'clock and the jam on the outside of the hall was terrific. Chairman James made a statement that he had ordered the doors closed and demanded order in the galleries.
